The power situation in Harahan remains fluid as we work through connecting back to Entergy power. This is difficult and detailed work that takes time to complete. Our facilities team is doing incredible work as quickly and safely as possible to get us back running on Entergy power. It's been an extraordinary effort by the facilities team.

We are continuing to increase production capacity even during this transition through the work of many which is great news to report.

Harahan Employees:

You should report to Harahan campus tomorrow only if you are a production-related employee and have been told by your supervisor to do so. Everyone else should remain off campus until further notice.

Hammond Employees:

Hammond power has been restored and they are bringing more machines online as we speak. You should report to work as instructed by your supervisor.

Hammond employees will no longer receive these updates. You'll hear directly from your supervisors moving forward.

Thanks to all for your patience and hard work during this challenging time.

We will update when we have further information.

Thanks all.
