

All,

We hope everyone is remaining safe and doing well.

We are still without power at our Harahan/Modern Farms and Hammond facilities. We have some water pressure and are optimistic we will have sewerage back shortly for Harahan. We have generators available for limited power supply.

We have a large team of employees managing incredible logistics to create a plan to get limited production back up and running as soon as tomorrow with a significant number of volunteers in Intralox Assembly. We are finalizing plans for targeted volunteers in Machine Shop and Machinery to begin running on a limited basis by Friday. To give a highlight of the work, the team has established a base in Biloxi, MS to begin housing and feeding those employees with round trip transport who are helping to get production back up on campus.

Campus will be closed Thursday and Friday to all other employees.

Please continue to be in touch with your supervisor to stay current with what return plans look like for each department.

There is still uncertainty over when we will be able to resume full operations but are optimistic with this great news and the tremendous work of the Laitram team.

We will provide another update when we know more.

Stay safe.
